

The New York Times

PUBLISHED AUTHOR

We all live in a “glasshouse” of our own, knowing very little about the other “glasshouses” around us. Let’s therefore get out of our “glasshouses” for a change and learn more about life in other professions and recognize that we are all more or less “comedians”. The “comedies”, here ten very different real-life situations, do not take only this into account, but also invite us to look at life with a smile, because those, who smile, live happier and longer.

Martin Kari, a featured author in Pageturner Press and Media's New York Times best-selling books.

He is one of the most sought-after authors in the Australian continent. He won several awards and commendations from the most notable people in Europe and Australia.

Born during World War II in Transylvania, the author undertook many directions in his life, starting as a refugee in Germany. The author envisages a return to grassroots from whence we should act with common sense in life. It would be a 'mission impossible' to make a summary here. More could be found in Journey of a Lifetime. Martin Kari has already published numerous books from English and foreign language translations. You may see all his books available on his website and Pageturner, Press and Media bookstores.
